

JULIA COOLEY
5318 Greenwood Ave., Chicago, Ill.

She's never at a loss for words,
Her conversation's never trite,
In fact, of her it may be said
She always says the thing
that's right.

EDWINA HOLBROOK COREY
485 E. 17th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Teddy" has won many friends
In 1—9—1—4,
And quietly through all her life,
She'll keep on winning more.

MARY PRENTICE CRANE
Grossele, Michigan

She goes in strong for science,
'Tis a really tragic story,
When'er you ask for her, they say
"She's in the laboratory."

SYLVIA CROWELL
512 Park St.,
Upper Montclair, N. J.

In Day-dreams she often is lost,
This quality won for her fame,
So "Dreamy" she is to her friends,
Though Sylvia's really her name.

CONSTANCE CURTIS
248 Cedar St., Corning, N. Y.

Whenever "Connie" meets us
Be we sad or be we gay,
The smile with which she greets
us
Always brightens up the day.

MARGARET CUSHING
Highland Park, Ill.

She's the girl with that wonderful smile,
In hockey she's proved she's worth while,
And the class of Fourteen,
As can plainly be seen,
Have shown that they like
Margot's style.

HELEN MEHARD DAVIDSON
314 Lang Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

A little bow across her hair,
A busy, hurried little air,
A winning smile and friendly looks,
A pleasing earnestness in books.

DOROTHY DEMING
245 Bradley St., New Haven, Conn.

She's wing upon the hockey team,
She scampers o'er the grass,
She's a really quite athletic
Secretary of the class.
